

DIDN'T RELISH IT.

The Senators Greatly Stirred Over Cleveland's Letter.

Democrats Have Nothing at All to Say.

THE REPUBLICANS MAD

They Say it Ought to Be Promptly Resented.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The president's letter to Chairman Wilson, the senators' interest among the senators, although generally they were much averse to saying anything about it. Some of the opinions of those who would say anything are as follows:

Mr. Hill—"I prefer to say nothing at this time as to the propriety or wisdom of the letter. It comes rather late and may complicate the whole situation and defeat all tariff legislation whatever. If the president, instead of writing a letter, had exerted his influence to assist me in getting votes for free raw materials the present unfortunate complication might have been avoided. I trust there will be more votes now for free raw materials when I bring forward the proposition again in the senate, which I expect to do. The skies are brightening."

Senator Bruce—"I think it remarkable the chairman of the house committee on ways and means should have had such a letter read. It is, of course, unparliamentary here for us to discuss a proceeding in the other house, but some of the Republicans may bring it up in a way to force us to do so. So far as the sugar schedule is concerned, it is the administration does not want it we may take the house bill on the sugar question. It is the fabric of the bill as a whole that we are concerned with."

Senator Murphy—"I do not care to criticize the president. We will answer the president with our votes." Republicans were far more willing than Democratic senators to express opinions on the subject. Their estimate of the letter was fairly summarized in the words of Senator Hawley (Rep. Conn.), who said: "It is the greatest mistake ever made by a president of the United States and ought to be resented."

SENATE PROCEEDINGS

The Tariff and the Indian Schools Question Up for Consideration

WASHINGTON, July 20.—When the senate met yesterday, Mr. Allen, Populist, of Nebraska, introduced a resolution calling on the secretary of state for information as to whether any office or bureau has been established on Ellis Island, New York harbor, or any other property of the government, for the purpose of furnishing information to Italian or other immigrants relative to employment, and whether the expenses of the bureau is borne by the United States. It was sent to the committee on immigration.

Mr. Voorhees, the senate manager of the conference on the tariff bill, rising to a privileged question, asked the house manager on the tariff bill to be laid before the senate. Mr. Voorhees stated he was commissioned to say the bill had been under full and free conference and the conferees had agreed to the amendments and that the senate conferees insisted on their amendments.

Having consulted men on both sides he said, he should ask to have the bill lay on the table, to be taken up for consideration to-day immediately after the reading of the journal.

Mr. Hill thereupon gave notice that at that time he should move to instruct the conferees to place coal and iron on the free list and that he would at the same time submit some remarks on the question.

Mr. Manderson, Republican of Nebraska, inquired whether there was not a communication from the president on the subject.

"None that I have," replied Mr. Voorhees, and the motion to lay on the table was then agreed to.

When the tariff bill had thus been disposed of, the Indian appropriation bill was then taken up.

An amendment was agreed to directing the secretary of the interior to inquire into the propriety of discontinuing the Indian contract schools as rapidly as possible without interfering with the education of the Indian children, and to report at the next session of congress an estimate of the cost of substituting government schools for all the contract schools now existing. A further amendment was adopted appropriating $15,000 for the Wyandotte Indians to purchase lands in severalty from the Quapaw Indians in Indian Territory for absentee Wyandotte Indians. The bill was then passed.

At 5:45 the senate went into executive session and shortly after adjourned.

Another Bridge Burned.
SOUTH ENVI, Ok., July 20.—Last night another bridge, 110 feet long, was burned six miles south of this city. Nothing is known as to the men who did the work. It is supposed to be the outgrowth of the fight here with regard to a depot.

HIGH ART CERTIFICATES.

New Paper Dollars to Be Works of Beauty as Well as Usefulness.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Claude M. Johnson, the chief of the bureau of engraving and printing, to-day received from Secretary Carlisle his approval of a new design for the one dollar certificate.

The design represents history instructing youth. History is represented by a female figure in a reclining position, with her right arm around the youth and the left arm extended forward, pointing toward the door of Washington in the background showing the dome of the capital and the Washington monument. The open pages of a book on the other end of the note contain the constitution of the United States. The border consists of wreaths extending all around the note, in each of which is the name of some prominent man who has figured in the history of the country as a statesman, author, inventor, soldier or sailor.

OPENED BY A SAFE BLOWES

A Joliet Convict Called Upon to Do a Job for an Estate.

JOLIET, Ill., July 20.—When the late George Stewart of Wilmington died he had many thousands of dollars' worth of securities, money, etc., locked up in his safe, of which he alone had the combination. When the executor, N. M. Stewart, began administering the estate he could not get into the safe. After consulting Warden Allen, he sent the safe to the prison. The most expert safe cracker in the country, who is serving a long term, was shown it, and looked it all over.

"Can you open safes?" was asked. "That's what got me in here," the convict replied.

The man seated himself in front of the door and gave the handle several lively twists. Then he began a job which occupied over an hour but which ended in his throwing the door wide open.

KEEP OFF THE GRASS.

Populists of Arkansas Wear the Badge at Their State Convention.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 20.—The largest crowd of Populists ever assembled at the state capital was in attendance at West End park yesterday, when the Populist party state convention was called to order, fully 1,000 men, women and children, nearly all wearing "keep off the grass" badges and small Coxy flags, being present.

After addresses by Populist leaders and the appointment of a committee on resolutions and platform the convention adjourned until to-day. W. J. Parks of Lafayette will probably be the gubernatorial nominee. The remainder of the ticket is in doubt.

MONEY FROM INCOME TAX

Senator Hill Estimates the Amount From the Bureau of Statistics.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Senator Hill has received a long letter from Worthington G. Ford, chief of the bureau of statistics, in which he states that the possibilities of the revenue that can be raised from the income tax ranges all the way from $12,000,000 to $39,000,000. He thinks that the latter figure is the highest which can possibly be hoped for, and the last few years the collections would fall below $15,000,000. He also expresses the opinion that the revenue which will be collected on private incomes will not be more than sufficient to pay for collections.

A BOY SAW THEM DO IT

California Strike Leaders Are on Trial for Murder.

The Evidence is Very Damaging Against Them.

TRACED TO A. R. U. MEN.

The Boy Driving Accused to Sacramento Wreck Testifies.

WOODLAND, Cal., July 20.—The preliminary examination of the five strikers charged with murder, as the result of the recent horror at the railroad trestle west of Sacramento, was resumed yesterday. The judge settled the first point of the contention by ruling that the five prisoners must be examined jointly. The case of Worden, however, was finally permitted to go over until Monday. The hearing of evidence against Knox, Mullen, Hatch and Compton, all members of the mediation committee, was then begun. Johnny Sherburne was first called, and proved a telling witness for the prosecution. He is a 14-year-old boy who is in the employ of Sacramento livey man. The lad says that on the forenoon of the day of the wreck, he drove Worden to the outskirts of Sacramento, and took into his wagon a crowbar, wrenches and other tools. Later Worden was joined by five other men whom the boy did not know. They then set out on a trestle at which a train was wrecked and five men killed, and when within a few rods of the trestle all the men left the wagon, taking their tools with them.

The lad said that he was then ordered to drive a short distance toward the city. He did as instructed, and while waiting heard a loud explosion. Soon afterwards Worden came up and the boy drove him back to the city. As they were entering Sacramento they were told that a train had just been wrecked. When told that Engineer Clarke had been killed Worden applied a vile epithet and declared that he was glad of it.

A sensational climax came, however, when young Sherburne testified that on the day following the wreck his cent had been hit to words with a bill for the team. Worden went with him to the office of the A. R. U. mediation committee in Sacramento, and there the bill was paid. The boy was on the witness stand all the forenoon and under a severe cross-examination was not shaken.

MORE A. R. U. INDICTMENTS.

Debs and His Associates Have More Charges Piled Up Against Them.

CHICAGO, July 20.—The federal grand jury returned twenty-three indictments in Judge Seaman's court yesterday afternoon and was discharged. In the twenty-three indictments were included the names of about seventy-five individuals, who are charged with violating the federal statutes during the railroad troubles of the last three weeks.

District Attorney McIlchrist refused to give the names of any of the indicted persons beyond admitting that there were several new indictments against Debs, Howard, Keliher and Rogers, the chief officers of the railway union.

Included in one of the indictments also are officers of the organization who have not been so prominent as the four now in the county jail. The others who go to make up the seventy-five are strikers against whom are charged specific acts of interference with trains or other property of the companies. Debs and the other officers are in nearly all the twenty-three indictments. Whenever the grand jury concluded to indict a batch of rioters who committed specific acts, such as the derailling of trains, Debs and his companions were named with them as conspirators. No indictments were returned against railroad officials because no information was given against them.

THE STRIKE IN CALIFORNIA.

Debs Informs the Men They Can Declare It Off by a Vote.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 20.—Reports from Oakland are to the effect that a dispatch was received from Debs informing the strikers that the strike in California could be ended by a majority vote.

The Southern Pacific dispatched a train for Portland, the first that has been sent out on that line since the strike began, and the railroad officials say that they are conducting their business without hindrance. The strikers, on the other hand, insist that the train service is still badly crippled. It is certain that trains are running very irregularly.

Garfield had been reading about the bullet proof shields invented and recently tested in Germany. He concluded to make one like them, and having completed it he put it on and asked his brother to fire a shot at him. The little brother performed the request. The bullet went through the shield and pierced the boy's heart. The shield was made out of a coffee sack and filled with scraps of old barbed wire and wool. The accident drove the mother of the boys insane.

A COMEDY OF ERRORS.

To the Shrewd Paris Police Official There Was Something Tragic About It.

Paris is just now shaken with unholy mirth over the tribulations of a commissary of police. A certain lady went to the Bon Marche the other day and stole a quantity of valuable lace. She was arrested forthwith and turned over to the police. The culprit was invited to dine that evening and begged the authorities to let her notify her expectant host, but as the authorities are not tender to thieves they calmly ignored her request. That evening M. Prelat, the police official from the left bank of the Seine, hired a cab and went to the guilty woman's rooms.

There he found so many stolen goods that he rummaged through the entire place, and packing all the stolen effects in a big black trunk got his cabman to add him in taking it down to the carriage. The next morning the gentleman whose dinner was spoiled by the absence of his fair guest called to see what was the matter. He rung and pounded unavailingly, so the concierge produced a pass key, and they both stood agape at the terrible condition of the apartment. The case was plain. A malefactor, probably an anarchist, had got in on some pretext. The disorder of the room denoted that his victim had fought desperately for her life, but he had murdered her and stuffed her corpse and all the valuables he could find into a missing black trunk.

The friend flew off with cries of despair to notify the police of the quarter of this awful crime. The concierge related the whole affair to a knot of curious bystanders, which speedily expanded into a dense crowd. The police took down the description of the criminal who stole the black trunk and the description of the cabman who drove a white horse, ordered the looks changed on the apartment so that no one could enter without the knowledge of the police, and then withdrew with dignity. Half an hour later, while the crowd was still staring at the murder stained house, the cab with the white horse drove up to the door, and the supposed murderer alighted. He was instantly denounced by the irate concierge, and being utterly unconscious of his own supposed misdeed was nearly lynched before he sufficiently realized the situation to produce his police badge, when the crowd respectfully dropped him. We rather dislike the police in Paris, but we certainly stand in wholesome awe of them.

The unoffending commissaire then found himself locked out of the apartment, owing to the precautions of the police, and was forced to send for his colleague to open the door for him. His search for stolen goods was successful, as he netted about $3,000 worth. The only people in Paris who do not perceive the farcical side of this situation are, first, M. Prelat, who came near being lynched and was knocked about roughly by the mob for the perpetration of a crime that never was committed; the officious friend, who raised all this bother, and the lady herself, who is gloomily meditating behind prison bars on the inconvenience attendant on her breach of the eleventh commandment, "Thou shalt not be found out."—Paris Cor. A Sufferer Given Up to Die Dreams of a Cure

Suffering Women Should Read This Letter.

Douglas, Kansas.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.: I suffered with female and kidney troubles for nine long years. Four doctors gave me up, and I had little hope of recovery. One night I dreamed about Hood's Sarsaparilla, and when I told my husband he made fun of me, but I went ten miles and bought the medicine.

Two Bottles Cured Me. But I kept on taking it, and I know it saved my life. I am now a poor widow, but I have such faith in Hood's Sarsaparilla that I have bought it to give it away to get the afflicted to take it. Last fall I gave Hood's Sarsaparilla to several sick women, who said it was no use for me, but I told myself for they claimed to have tried everything and all had failed. However, I sent them to take it, telling them it would not cost them a cent.

Now All Are Well, And we feel glad that there is such a good medicine as Hood's Sarsaparilla. In the past three years I have bought twenty-two bottles and
